“ Brandon was my college roommate. He, Juan and I shared an apartment during and after our college days. We all were like true brothers in the true sense of the word. When I found out this terrible news I almost passed out myself. I wish I could hear that laugh of yours one more time B-Money(its my nickname for him). You really were a gentle giant. I'll miss all of the fun we had during our outings together. You were as free-hearted of a person as they came. I remember when I asked you on a whim to assist me with a financial matter and you didn't hesitate. I'll never forget it and the way you supported my efforts always. Just thinking on the time you and I wrestled Chris the day he got married. He tried to run but we caught him...talked sense into him and got him to the alter in time for his I Do. We laughed about that for years!hahaha...That's just one of the many many things that bonded us. You will sure be missed my FRIEND AND BROTHER....

“ I have worked with Brandon for almost a year now and getting to know him has been a blessing. He joined us on many trips out to eat and he was always so nice to everyone. He never seemed to let any stress show and anytime I had a question for him he would stop what he was doing to help me. Rest in peace, buddy. I'll eat some extra pizza for you!

“ I have worked with Brandon for the last two years. He was one of the best people I have known. He was honest, gentle, dedicated caring person who never had an unkind word to say about anyone. At our Christmas lunch in December someone asked Brandon if he had a super power what would it be. He said the power of healing. That statement pretty well describes who Brandon was.

“ *Brandon was a quiet man with a big heart. Spent many evenings working out in a small family gym with him and he would always keep us going during boot camp on Saturday mornings. His smile and gentle head nod will be missed. Hope Brandon's family and friends hold on to the fun memories they shared and allow them to provide comfort during the challenging days ahead.
